The Allspark has been blessed with the chance to bring you the entire script for the unpublished The Wreckers issue #4, the "final" installment in the Wreckers maxi-series. The title was originally meant to be an ongoing story, but evolved to serve as an interstitial comic, linking the Wreckers and the Universe title, but that plan never came to fruition.

With the prelude to the long-awaited WRECKERS finale arriving in the fan community's mailboxes, it was suggested that the full script for the proposed 4th issue of the WRECKERS mini-series be made available for everyone to read in anticipation of the story's conclusion. Although its contents will be incorporated into the Club's final installment, this will be the only opportunity to read the full dialogue and enjoy writer Rob Gerbracht's vision in this post-Beast Machines adventure. Enjoy!

Special thanks go out to the TCC magazine for the opportunity to finish this story and Rob Gerbracht, Glen Hallit, and Jon Hartman for providing the script and story notes. Additional thanks go out to Karl Hartman and Dan Khanna for their own contributions to this anticipated story.
