Last week we reported that "Superbad" star Jonah Hill was in early talks to co-star in the sequel to astf as Shia LaBeouf's "comic relief" sidekick. Today, according to Entertainment Weekly's web site (which broke the news of his possible casting in the first place), those negotiations have broken down. Hill will officially not be appearing in Transformers 2, which will likely reduce the number of improvised penis jokes in the sequel by about 33% (Michael Bay and Shia LaBeouf are still attached).
