The Transformers Collectors Club has updated its Members Only page with their next prose story, I, Lowtech. The story is the third and final prose story set in TransTech's Axiom Nexus and details the events surrounding Transtech Bulletbike's decent from his elitist status. Who's behind his downfall, and how does he plan on regaining his prestige? Download the PDF to find out! One thing's for sure though, there's plenty of Swindle-ing going on! The story is written by S. Trent Troop and Greg Sepelak, and the illustrations are drawn by Nick Roche and colored by the Allspark's own Winston Bolen (AKA -VP-)!

Transformers Collectors Club Releases I, Lowtech

September 17, 2008 &ndash; The Official Transformers Collectors' Club (<http://www.transformersclub.com>) has released the final installment from its trilogy of TransTech illustrated short stories by Greg Sepelak and S.Trent Troop. Noted Transformers comic artist Nick Roche illustrates this members-only tale with colors by Winston Bolen. I, Lowtech is the third text story set in the teeming TransTech Metropolis known as Axiom Nexus and serves as a follow-up to the previous two stories: Gone Too Far and Withered Hope. I, Lowtech also offers a glimpse into the final hours of the current Transcendent storyline which concludes this November.

Something horrible has happened in the depths of Axiom Nexus. Bulletbike, a member of the TransTech elite, has had his life stolen from him. His fevered climb to regain his position will take him from the lowest of the Offworld Zones to the heights of TransTech society amid mystery, madness and murder. You will see the rise and fall through his optics as his one-Transformer struggle against his faceless enemy brings him into contact with beggars, thieves, smugglers and a seemingly unstoppable killer.

All this and three, count them, three Swindles.

I, Lowtech and the previous Transformers text stories are available at www.transformersclub.com along with exclusive desktop wallpapers, character profiles and other bonus content for members of the Official Transformers Collector's Club.
