

Headmaster Concept Art Turns Plastic

Contributed by NightViper
Saturday, 06 February 2010

Third-party company Headrobots has news that might just get Headmaster fans giddy! They have revealed their first offering, and it's certainly something that fans have never seen before. At least in plastic. Headrobots has taken the unused Headmaster concept art and constructed a figure based on the "Cobra" design! That's right, a snake that turns into a robot head!

You can see a variety of images for the new Headmaster here! Then discuss this news here. Reminder: This is a third-party product, not an official or licensed product from Hasbro or Takara.